The Owner(s) specifically waives the right to seek damages or to assert any claims against the Contractor, or the Contractor's employees, except as may be provided in this Express Limited Warranty Agreement.

7. Dispute Resolution: Mediation first - then Binding Arbitration

Any and all Warranty disputes between the parties, shall be resolved as follows:

Either party may request mediation by giving written notice to the other. The notice shall include a brief description of the disagreement. Mediation of disputes is encouraged, but neither party shall be required to accept mediation. If an offer to mediate is accepted, the parties shall select a mutually agreed mediator, and shall schedule a mediation session as soon as reasonably possible. Mediated results are nonbinding, but the parties may reduce any mediated resolution to writing and execute it as a binding contract. The costs of mediation shall be equally divided by the parties.

Any monetary Warranty dispute between the parties that is not resolved by voluntary mediation, and that does not exceed this state's jurisdictional limit for small claims, shall be resolved in the small claims court for the city or county where the property are located. The claiming party will be responsible for filing suit in accordance with small claims procedures. The parties agree to abide by the decision of the small claims court judge.

All Warranty disputes that are not resolved by mediation or small claims litigation shall be decided by arbitration. Either party may request arbitration by giving written notice to the other. The notice shall include a brief description of the matter in dispute.

Arbitration shall be conducted in accordance with state and local arbitration rules by an arbitrator of both parties mutual choosing.

Should either party fail or refuse to participate in arbitration proceedings, the arbitrator shall be authorized to proceed and to render a decision based on whatever evidence may be presented. Decisions of the arbitrator shall be binding on both parties, and may not be appealed, or subject to rehearing. The costs of arbitration, and any reasonable attorneys fees and legal expenses, shall be paid in accordance with the arbitrator's decision. If, however, the arbitrator makes no such determination, the prevailing party's arbitration costs, reasonable attorneys' fees and/or additional legal expenses shall be paid by the other party. The term "prevailing party" means that party in whose favor the greater total monetary sum or more valuable equitable award is made, or in whose favor the dispute is resolved, regardless of any settlement offer.
